

Bikes of Berlin

As I was collecting pictures of bikes and people on bikes all over Berlin, my friend from Holland states “you are photographing what I see every day in Holland . . . Kind of like me coming to the states to photograph fat people . . .” If more Americans rode bikes instead of sitting in cars and burning up fuel we would not have this reputation!

There are bike lanes on the streets and the sidewalks . . .
However be careful to not walk in the bike lanes, you will be run over!

Deliveries are made on bikes

Women ride bikes in dresses, high heels and nice work clothes!

Kids are taught to ride at very young ages

And when it rains they just wear pochos .

Families ride bikes to destinations together

And there are special bikes for the wee little

It is Germany of course, so there are beer Bikes as well . . .

There are also fancy locks for bikes

And places to pump up your tires.

There are as many bike racks and places to park bikes as there are cars. Every sidewalk has bike racks or little metal loops that come out of the sidewalk that you can lock a bike to.

There are bikes for hauling . . .

Notice on the bike below the big carrier in front of the handlebars and behind the front wheel.

And then there are lots of fancy bikes,

home made bikes,

Girly bikes

Custom Bikes

And good people who just love their bikes and the freedom they provide.
